King David was completed on 7 August 1919 and dedicated to the tenor John Coates. One of many settings Howells made of poetry by his friend Walter de la Mare, it reflected the composer's enchantment with the movement of so-called 'Georgian' poets, established by the editions of Edward Marsh and Harold Monro of the Poetry Bookshop between 1911 and 1922.

King David | Song Texts, Lyrics & Translations | Oxford Lieder

Herbert Howells began as a student of Stanford and then a Vaughan Williams fan (he heard the première of the Tallis Fantasia and it changed him) writing finely-crafted, poetic chamber pieces and modest orchestral works. The death of his child seems to have stopped up most of his ambitions for himself as a composer.
